Again Theodore Roosevelt "stands pat."

What would spring be without a grass-fire?

Brad Smalley's backyard had to be enlarged today.

Vermont's welcome to Col. Bryan is quite enthusiastic, considering.

Will Barre this evening be entertaining the next president of the United States?

We extend the initiative to Mr. Bryan and leave the referendum to the people.

With a Lord to guide its destinies while President Tucker is recuperating Dartmouth college will be in good hands.

Once again the dead man has been held responsible for the terrible disaster. It is always easier to place the blame there.

Norwich university steps to the fore again in the tentative candidacy of General Grenville M. Dodge for Senator Allison's seat from Iowa. Not so very long ago Admiral Dewey was shedding lustre on the Northfield institution.

The "mayor of Roxbury" is bluntly told by the St. Albans Messenger not to "chronically and persistently seek office;" this in response to the statement of Mr. Stanton that he doesn't care to be considered a chronic office seeker. In some quarters he has been spoken of for governor of Vermont.

REVOLT AGAINST BOSSISM.

The little state of Rhode Island will go without one of its senators in the national assembly for a time because of the failure of the state legislature to elect before nine die adjournment on Tuesday. From one point of view this is unfortunate that a state must be deprived of its allotted representation to put it on an even basis with the other states of the union. But on the other hand, there is not so great dissatisfaction because of the legislature's dereliction in this case because of the kind of candidates who were before the electing body and beyond whom there seemed to be no effort to go. Neither of the Republican candidates was considered to be an especially happy choice for the position, particularly the one who is said to be a trust magnate of great influence in the industrial and commercial world. So, on the whole, there will not be so much regret at the numerical half-representation.

Perhaps the greatest pleasure of the situation comes from the utter inability of "Boss" Brayton for once to swing things to suit his purposes. It was Brayton's plea on Monday that the warring factions smother their animosity and unite to elect Col. Colt, the trust man, but his wishes were not followed. There have been repeated efforts to get Brayton out of power. This was one of the longest steps towards that end.

TREE CULTURE IN VERMONT.

There is a well-timed circular from the state experiment station about tree culture in Vermont, not exclusively the tree which you plant in your yard but the trees which you set out in your fields to bring revenue. This idea of cultivating trees for revenue is not old in this state, nor is it widely carried out. The only method of securing revenue has been to ruthlessly slash the forests and trust to nature to build them up again for the next slaughterer. This has left us with barren wastes of land, good only for the scant pasturage which can be secured from them, and miserably ugly in landscapes in most instances. Of late, however, there has been a changed idea, and it is steadily gaining ground. The movement was greatly accelerated by the action of the last legislature in providing a state nursery for forest tree seedlings. But it was only a small sum of money—$500 annually for five years—that the state promised for the work.

The purpose of this nursery will be to furnish to all residents of, or land-owners in, Vermont the material for planting at actual cost if possible. This nursery will be started this spring and the directors hope to be able to meet all the demands by another spring and even now they are in a position to supply part of the demand.

Information in the circular above referred to tells us that the white pine is the most promising tree for most situations in Vermont, and its selection is therefore advised generally. The Norway spruce and the European larch are also suitable for certain locations, and all of these will be handled by the state nursery, as also the black locust. When the nursery shall have become fully established, citizens are urged to take up this work of tree culture with the co-operation of the state, to the end that Vermont may become richer in this class of resources.

GAS WAS TURNED ON.

Brattleboro Woman Had Narrow Escape at Concord, N. H.

Concord, N. H., April 25.—A narrow escape from asphyxiation by illuminating gas was reported from 11 Thompson street, the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. R. Howard, yesterday morning. Two guests of Mr. and Mrs. Howard, Mrs. Rice and Miss McCormack of Brattleboro, Vt., in some way turned on the gas after retiring Tuesday night or not entirely turn it off. They were found unconscious in the morning, but were revived after hard work by three physicians who were called, Drs. E. G. Annable, Chancery Adams and C. H. Cook.

EAST CALAIS.

George Carley is ill.

C. E. Bliss was in Montpelier Monday.

Mrs. Austin Sanders, who has been ill with pneumonia, is better and gaining.

Mrs. Ira Ide, who has been ill, is reported better; also Mrs. Elizabeth Peck.

Mrs. Edwin of South Woodbury is visiting at the home of D. B. Dwinell this week.

Miss Grace McKinstrey of South Woodbury is to teach in district No. 6 this season.

Miss Bertha Grandfield of Northfield will teach the primary department of the village school this spring.

It is expected that Dr. C. H. Merrill of St. Johnsbury will preach at the Union church next Sunday for the Congregational people.

Bert Bancroft sawed his hand at D. B. Dwinell's mill Wednesday quite badly and will necessitate a lay-off of a few days for him.

MARSHFIELD.

H. B. Norris has been quite ill with stomach trouble.

Mrs. J. Burton Pike returned from St. Johnsbury Monday.

Mrs. E. A. Rosbrook returned from A. A. Lyndes Tuesday.

Mrs. S. H. Irwin is very sick with what appears like neuralgia of the spine. Shirley Tucker is working for her.

Miss Goldie Smith returned to her duties as teacher in Worcester, Mass., last Saturday, after a five weeks' visit here.

Frank Bohannon and Edwin Bond each had a phone on the M. F. telephone line installed in their homes recently. Clayton Collins had his house wired for electric lights this week.

Mr. and Mrs. B. L. Cameron and Mr. and Mrs. Hiram Wilson attended the funeral of Mrs. Jesse Wilson at Danville Tuesday. Mrs. Wilson was formerly Maudie Hall, daughter of Mark Hall. She leaves to mourn her loss a husband and little daughter, her father and two sisters. Mr. Wilson has the sympathy of a host of friends in this town.

Services at the Congregational church Sunday, April 28, will be as follows: At 11:00 a. m., preaching, topic, "A Substantial Anchor;" Sunday school will meet at 12:00; at 7:00 p. m., Christian Endeavor society will meet, topic, "Christ in the Continent of Asia," Isa. 49, 8, 11; at 7:45 p. m., preaching, topic, "The Joy of Youth." All are cordially invited.

Attempted Suicide at Last Successful. Burlington, April 25.—Charles Bickness, a young man from Jericho, who attempted suicide a week ago, died yesterday morning at the Mary Fletcher hospital. The bullet was not located. An autopsy was held yesterday afternoon.

JINGLES AND JESTS.

Little Boy Blue.
 Little Boy Blue, come blow your own horn.
 'Twill bring you good fortune as sure as you're born.
 The louder you blow it the more you're admired.
 And that, I've been told, is the goal that's desired.
 —Reader.

All Angels.
 "I was thinking," mused Mr. Eupek. "Of what?"
 "Of how crowded heaven must be with the husbands of widows who marry again." —New Orleans Times-Democrat.

What Wins.
 It's fine, with a mind filled with noble ideals.
 Of victories dreaming, to sit.
 It's nice, mighty nice, but it won't cut much ice.
 If you haven't the sit up and git. —Kansas City Times.

The Only Way.
 "Scribbly must intend starting a magazine."
 "What makes you think so?"
 "He told me he had a scheme to get his stuff published." —Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Correct.
 There was a saw fellow who said,
 "I think I have turned that girl's head."
 Which really was true.
 For what did she do
 But look elsewhere and cut the chap dead!
 —Philadelphia Ledger.

Nobody Said Draft.
 "Does he take good care of his money?"
 "I should say so. He won't even let it stay in a draft." —Cleveland Plain Dealer.

OUR ANNIVERSARY

April, 13, 1885, the GRANITE SAVINGS BANK AND TRUST COMPANY first opened its doors for business. Twenty-two years have made marked changes in Barre. The village has become a city. Thrift and industry and growth are visible on every hand. We have grown, too, and in growing we think we are justified in saying that we have contributed something to the healthy growth of Barre.

The banks of any city are an important factor in the commercial activities of that city. They are the clearing houses of business. They care for the funds of the business man, the savings of the wage-earner and thriftily inclined. They extend timely aid to the business man and the manufacturer and lend a helping hand to the home-builder. They are an active factor in the upbuilding of any city. So it has been in Barre, and in the growth of Barre the GRANITE SAVINGS BANK AND TRUST COMPANY has tried to do its part, and the large volume of business that has come to us indicates that we have succeeded.

So much for the past. In the present and in the future we shall strive earnestly to maintain our reputation for STRENGTH, SAFETY and PROGRESSIVENESS, and to do our part to make Barre a "BIGGER and BUSIER" city. We solicit all or a part of your account.
